

Events of the Week in the Society World

Older Set Takes Lead In Society's Activities

Debutantes, Having Had Full Sway for Many Weeks, Will Make Way for Their Elders to Fill Out Social Season as Is Usual Custom

New York's social season has as many subdivisions as it has sets and classes. Beginning with the sets of the debutantes, always inaugurated about the first of the season, and continuing after the holidays, it has the formal season, in which the members of the older set entertain for themselves; the charity season, in which dances, theatrical performances and other benevolent affairs are given; the Lenten season, when sewing classes and conversational and dinner parties, interspersed by musicales, form the chief occupations; and last of all the "little season," which follows Easter, bringing with it weddings and the usual entertaining connected with these country events, like horse shows, racing and week-end house parties.

The charity season is now approaching and one of its most interesting events will be the production on Saturday evening, February 1, at the Hudson Theater, of Oscar Wilde's play, "The Importance of Being Earnest." The women will include some of the most prominent in the fashionable world, among them Mrs. Lydie Hoyt, Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas, Mrs. James Lowell Putnam and Miss Elsa Maxwell, who will be supported by prominent professionals.

Then follows the Charity Ball, at which the mothers and grandmothers of some of the present leaders danced years ago by at the old Academy of Music and which is now being held at the Waldorf-Astoria, where the entire ballroom suite will be used on February 3. Before either of these dance some of the younger element of the fashionable set will invade the theatrical district and for two weeks appear for charity in an original musical comedy called "What Next?" for the benefit of the Girls' Protective League and the New York Probation and Protective Association.

The Junior League, of which Miss Mary J. Schieffelin is chairman of the dramatic committee this year, will have three performances in March at the Waldorf-Astoria, for the benefit of its various philanthropies. The last performance will be on March 10 and the cast will be an all-star one of the season's debutantes.

The annual dance of the New York City Y. M. C. A. will be given at the Colony Club on January 31, with Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee as hostess, and with many dinners preceding the affair it promises to be one of the most successful of the charity season.

The mid-winter ball, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Union Settlement, Mrs. Henry P. Johnson, chairman, will be one of the important charitable events of the month and take place on January 30 at the Ritz-Carlton. There will be a committee of debutantes in charge and Miss Eunice James, assisting Mrs. Deane.

Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer begins her season of entertaining this week with a dinner and dance on Thursday for her son, Herbert Pulitzer, at their home, 1 East Seventy-third Street, and a dinner there on Saturday night.

Mrs. James Blackstone Taylor will give a dinner at the Colony Club on Friday for Miss Emily Sloane Hammond and Miss Adelaide Youth Ogden and will later take them to the dance which Mrs. D. Hunter McAlpin will give at the Ritz-Carlton for her daughter, Miss Geraldine Rockefeller McAlpin, one of the debutantes of the season. Mrs. George B. Porter, of 3 East Fifty-first Street, gives a dance on the same night.

Several weddings will take place this week, one on Friday in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, where Miss Mary Cheson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Cheson, of 417 Park Avenue, will be married to Emilias Jarvis, of Toronto, son of Commodore and Mrs. Emilias Jarvis. The night before the wedding Dr. and Mrs. Cheson will give a dance and supper at the Ritz-Carlton for the bride party.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Frank Bertram Jordan for the marriage on Saturday of her daughter, Miss Marie de Milt Jordan, to Frederick Volmer Schaeffler. It will take place in the Louis XVI apartment at the Regis. Only relatives and a few intimate friends will be present at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception. Miss Jordan will be attended by her young sister, Miss Margaret Jordan. Middleton Rose will be the best man. There will be no bridesmaids.

Among the formal dinners of the week will be one by Mrs. Oliver Gould Thompson on Friday at her home, 882 Fifth Avenue.

One of the last of the debutant scheduled for January 30, when Mrs. Samuel Clifton Mabon, will entertain for her niece, Miss Laura Mabon, who was introduced last month.

Mrs. Mason Raborg gives a reception this afternoon at her home, 1187 Lexington Avenue.

Society Women Will Visualize Old Melodies at Hotel Astor To Be Given for Benefit of East Side Clinic for Children

"The Melody Ball" is to be given on Friday evening at the Hotel Astor for the benefit of the East Side Clinic for Children and Children, Mrs. Noble McCall, president, will be a costume queen in which those taking part will be required to represent songs of to-day and also famous songs of the past. Mrs. McCall will represent a song.

"Beautiful Lady," and will be accompanied by a group of friends who, will represent the famous Duchess of Devonshire by Gainsborough, Lady Teasdale, Lady Hamilton, Nell Gwyn, Dianne d'Poitiers, Mme. de Pompadour, Betsy Patterson and the Gunning sisters.

The song "Along the Nile" will have Mrs. Horace W. Du Moulin at its head and those taking part will wear Egyptian costumes.

In another song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," the young women will be attired in colored tulle frocks.

Some of the young women of the junior cabinet of the Mozart Society will be seen in the group picturing the song, "Oh! How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning." They will wear pajamas and breakfast robes and will carry hidden alarm clocks. The song "The Vamp" will be costumed appropriately, and "Winter" will show those taking part attired for winter sports, carrying conical snowballs.

WIDE WORLD PHOTOS

These young women took part in the performance of the musical comedy, "The Runaway Girl," given last Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Hotel Plaza for the benefit of the Grosvonor Neighborhood House. It was a brilliant affair and a large sum of money was realized. The young women appearing in the cast took their parts cleverly. Miss Carma Carroll, one of the most active workers for the house, took the part of Carmenita, and the others pictured here were in the chorus.

The managers of the Neighborhood House, in Fifth Street, and through the social service luncheons for forty school children near the East River supply free ice cream about thirty families are reached. Homes are visited, advice given, and during the summer months each child of the settlement is sent to the country for a fortnight.

The officers are Mrs. Charles D. Dickey Jr., Miss Cornelia Van Auker Chapin, Miss Christina Nichols, Mrs. Gilbert Darlington and Miss Gertrude B. Pardee.

First of Airplane Fleet Has Arrived at Daytona

DAYTONA, Fla., Jan. 17.—The eighth one of the airplane fleet which is to make headquarters here for the winter arrived this week with Lieutenant N. C. Wright in command and C. S. Hunkel as pilot. The fleet will be stationed at the Ridgewood for the season.

Tourists and hotel managers are pleased by the new railroad schedule, which gives Daytona seven trains a day from the North and helps in relieving the travel congestion that has existed for several weeks.

John W. Frothingham, of New York, and Miss Elizabeth Frothingham, of Tarrytown, are guests at the Princess Isabella while awaiting the opening of their cottage at Ormond Beach. Mr. and Mrs. M. Slepman, of New York, are also guests at the Princess Isabella while their cottage at Seabreeze is being made ready for occupancy. Recent arrivals at this hotel include Mr. and Mrs. James E.
